

PROFILE AND SKILLS

Over the past three years, I've worked on a range of academic and personal projects that helped me build hands-on skills in website development (HTML, CSS, JavaScript), Android app creation (Android Studio), game development (Unity, C#), and machine learning using Python (Glass Classification project). I've also explored UI/UX prototyping through Figma, digital forensics, cybersecurity awareness, and data visualization using libraries like Matplotlib.

These experiences have shaped me into a creative and detail-oriented developer. I'm passionate about using technology to solve real-world problems and am actively seeking opportunities in the tech and creative industries where I can continue to learn, contribute, and develop innovative digital solutions.
